

DEMAND FOR PACKER REGULATION GROWING

Congressional leaders look for action before present session is brought to close.

STIRRED BY REVELATIONS

Advancing prices and reports of Federal Trade Commission responsible for condition.

World's Washington Bureau. — WASHINGTON, July 14.—Leaders in congress admitted today that before the present session is brought to a close, there is likely to be a substantial demand for legislation providing for government control of the packer industry. It was indicated that such a demand will participate a lively fight in both the house and the senate.

Formulation of constructive measures which will extend the control of the government to the business of packing and storing meat supplies already are under way. It was learned today from reliable sources, and these measures will be introduced in the coming session, that the committee will not be shackled by solicitation by steering committees or frightened by the forces of hostile majorities. Senator Keyes of Iowa, who already has opposed several gigantic trusts, is one of them.

Differ on Extent. — There is a difference of opinion, however, as to what extent such control as is proposed should be extended. In the opinion of one group of leaders that all the federal government needs to do in that direction is to establish a license system for the packers, compel every person or corporation engaged in the business to have such license, and then to lay down general regulations to which the packers will conform. On the other hand, there is another group of legislators who insist that such a program is entirely inadequate and that the government should place the packers under the immediate trusteeship of some federal department. If government control is to prove even measurably effective, Advocates in congress of the control of this industry were strengthened by such revelations as were made through the federal trade commission months ago. These showed that a virtual monopoly exists in the packing house business, that the members of this monopoly have full power to fix market prices for their stock, and that they had agreed to dress meat on the other; and that the packers are reaching out for the control over the general supply market through the superb system of warehouses, refrigeration and transportation which has been developed by them.

Commission Actives. — It was the active of the federal trade commission which aroused many of the members of congress. But outside of that body, there is an even more insistent sentiment for some degree of relief from the manifestly excessive prices that the average consumer must pay for the products of the packers. For more than three years there has been a steady advance in those prices. It is due to the fact that originally there was a slight recession in the wholesale quotations, but it is equally evident that the retailers do not take such recession seriously for the reason that the retail prices do not shrink. Those who are planning to attack the present management of the great industry intend to point out that the cost of meat, as well as packed meats is so high, or to get almost out of reach, the packers are not paying a living price for the livestock which they slaughter.

Sooner or later, according to events indication to be found in Washington today, congress will pass some degree of control of the packer industry. Injunctions have been made more than once that President Wilson, himself, when he begins to deal principally with domestic issues will take the lead in seeing that the packers are brought within the jurisdiction of the government. The attorney, however, of such injunctions is not proven.

SINN FEINERS DESIRE WORLD TRADE RELATIONS. — Special to The World. — DUBLIN, IRELAND.—The Sinn Fein party, desirous to conclude Irish trade direct with the nations of the world without the mediation of English ports, has been suggested that Ireland should have exclusive trade conditions of its own, general in the remaining independent countries and islands.

In view of the difficulties of concluding such a thing, such a scheme, it is said, may be more than the Sinn Feiners, who are the most prominent supporters of Sinn Fein, can be expected to do. The Sinn Feiners are not, however, of much importance in the political life of Ireland.

REPORT TUMULTY CHOSEN SUCCESSOR TO BURLESON. — NEW YORK, July 14.—The New York Stock Market opens this afternoon.

Joseph Tumulty, President Wilson's successor, is named to be the new postmaster-general, according to unofficial reports. Some reliable sources, however, state that Arthur Burleson, long time in the service, particularly following the president's return from Europe, in fact, took responsibility in the administration of the proposal.

Goes to Mexico Auto Stolen. — While the owner, William McDaniel, who is running a motorization agency, the Motorization Service, a four-motorized tractor, which was parked opposite the business office on Third street, at about six o'clock Monday night,

BILL STROTHIER WILL WALK UP 14 STORIES

HUMAN FLY. Dennis Back and Bill Clinch Gordon Building Wednesday Night Then Quite Game.

Bill Strothier, the human spider, who scaled the Farnsworth National bank building several weeks ago, is

back again.

Bill Strothier, the human spider,

who scaled the Farnsworth National

bank building several weeks ago, is

back again.

Bill Strothier, the human spider,

who scaled the Farnsworth National

bank building several weeks ago, is

back again.

Bill Strothier, the human spider,

who scaled the Farnsworth National

bank building several weeks ago, is

back again.

Bill Strothier, the human spider,

who scaled the Farnsworth National

bank building several weeks ago, is

back again.

Bill Strothier, the human spider,

who scaled the Farnsworth National

bank building several weeks ago, is

back again.

Bill Strothier, the human spider,

who scaled the Farnsworth National

bank building several weeks ago, is

back again.

Bill Strothier, the human spider,

who scaled the Farnsworth National

bank building several weeks ago, is

back again.

Bill Strothier, the human spider,

who scaled the Farnsworth National

bank building several weeks ago, is

back again.

Bill Strothier, the human spider,

who scaled the Farnsworth National

bank building several weeks ago, is

back again.

Bill Strothier, the human spider,

who scaled the Farnsworth National

bank building several weeks ago, is

back again.

Bill Strothier, the human spider,

who scaled the Farnsworth National

bank building several weeks ago, is

back again.

Bill Strothier, the human spider,

who scaled the Farnsworth National

bank building several weeks ago, is

back again.

Bill Strothier, the human spider,

who scaled the Farnsworth National

bank building several weeks ago, is

back again.

Bill Strothier, the human spider,

who scaled the Farnsworth National

bank building several weeks ago, is

back again.

Bill Strothier, the human spider,

who scaled the Farnsworth National

bank building several weeks ago, is

back again.

Bill Strothier, the human spider,

who scaled the Farnsworth National

bank building several weeks ago, is

back again.

Bill Strothier, the human spider,

who scaled the Farnsworth National

bank building several weeks ago, is

back again.

Bill Strothier, the human spider,

who scaled the Farnsworth National

bank building several weeks ago, is

back again.

Bill Strothier, the human spider,

who scaled the Farnsworth National

bank building several weeks ago, is

back again.

Bill Strothier, the human spider,

who scaled the Farnsworth National

bank building several weeks ago, is

back again.

Bill Strothier, the human spider,

who scaled the Farnsworth National

bank building several weeks ago, is

back again.

Bill Strothier, the human spider,

who scaled the Farnsworth National

bank building several weeks ago, is

back again.

MR. AND MRS. WILSON AT FRENCH RECEPTION

WASHINGTON, July 14.—President Wilson, with Mrs. Wilson, recently attended a reception given at the French embassy by Ambassador and Mme. Josephine, in observance of Bastille day, the French national holiday. It was the first social event attended by the president since his return from France.

The reception brought to a close another busy day for the president, during which he paid his first call at the White House with members of congress since his return, received the members of the Association of the Bar, and the members of the Senate, and the members of the House.

The reception was held at the French embassy, 16 Avenue de Marigny, Paris.

It was reported that the president had a good time.

He was seen in the garden of the French embassy, where he met General Joffre, General

Haig, and General

Frederick, among others.

He was also seen in the garden of the French embassy,

where he met General

Haig, General

Frederick, and General

Frederick, among others.

He was also seen in the

garden of the French embassy,

where he met General

Haig, General

Frederick, and General

Frederick, among others.

He was also seen in the

garden of the French embassy,

where he met General

Haig, General

Frederick, and General

Frederick, among others.

He was also seen in the

garden of the French embassy,

where he met General

Haig, General

Frederick, and General

Frederick, among others.

He was also seen in the

garden of the French embassy,

where he met General

Haig, General

Frederick, and General

Frederick, among others.

He was also seen in the

garden of the French embassy,

where he met General

Haig, General

Frederick, and General

Frederick, among others.

He was also seen in the

garden of the French embassy,

where he met General

Haig, General

Frederick, and General

Frederick, among others.

He was also seen in the

garden of the French embassy,

where he met General

Haig, General</